Weather Tips

A tornado (often referred to as a twister or, erroneously, a cyclone) is a violent, dangerous, rotating column of air that is in contact with both the surface of the earth and a cumulonimbus cloud or, in rare cases, the base of a cumulus cloud. Tornadoes can develop over water as well, this is called a “waterspout”. Tornadoes typically move from the southwest to northeast, but they can move in any direction and can change suddenly. The average forward speed of a tornado is 30 mph but can very up to 70 mph. Know the way to your safe room or shelter, Have it stocked with water, food and a NOAA weather radio. You will need to be able to act quickly when a warning is issued.
